Banking Sector of India Today

Structure of the Organised Banking Sector in India (No. of banks are in brackets)

Banking Sector History

Banking in India in the sense originated by the first act in 1842 among the first banks in India, the Bank of Bengal, which was established in 1806 but failed.

The largest bank, and still in existence, is the state bank. The Bank of Bengal, the Bank of Madras - the first national bank, was established in 1842 to promote the development of India. The Bank of India was established in 1809. For many years the banks had acted as quasi-public bodies. The Reserve Bank of India was established in 1935, under the Reserve Bank Act 1934.

The Indian Banking system is classified into Scheduled banks, which are regulated by RBI Act 1934. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is the central bank of India. It is the further classified into public sector banks, private sector banks, foreign banks and investment banks.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is the central bank of India. It is the further classified into public sector banks, private sector banks, foreign banks and investment banks.

Push to Join Banks

Foreign banks trade investment banks and tax Mahindra Capitelweiss, Q3 Capital

Entered up cutting cheques because of the consolidation process.

Summary: Dual banks need to come together to deal with stressed assets and large project loans but focus on small ticket loans.

End Dual Control of PSU Banks: YV Reddy

India must put an end to the dual control over public sector banks that are under severe stress due to mounting sticky loans, former Reserve Bank of India (RBI) Governor Y.V. Reddy said. Improving governance in public sector banks is more important than consolidation, Reddy said. In a public statement, Reddy said that the government has not taken enough steps to regulate public sector banks. This was promptly contested by the government. Reddy, which started its journey three years ago, currently has 987 banks.
